"The past performance of SignElements on the Fox Cities Performing Arts Center in Appleton reinforced my confidence they would deliver to our expectations for the Long Center in Austin, Texas. We have similar personalities, work ethic and attention to detail. From initial drawings to meticulous fabrication and installation, SignElements delivered what they promised. My relationship with SignElements is solid with the completion of two successful performing arts center projects."

"The project team at SignElements provided us with a full range of interior signage for Phase 1 addition of St. Elizabeth Hospital. They were able to follow our specifications and finalize renderings into constructible design plans. They pay very close attention to detail through design, fabrication and installation with budget and schedule in mind. SignElements provided the scope of services and the right value fit for this project to be a success."
